Overview

In its early years, the BASSC Research Response Team (RRT) focused on single county projects. This research usually addressed questions related to service delivery and client populations, including homeless needs assessment and education for foster children. A more limited number of projects addressed management level or policy issues, such as managed care. The projects utilized a range of research methods, including case studies, surveys, literature reviews, focus groups, key informant and other in-depth interviews, and case record reviews.

Following the enactment of federal welfare reform in 1996, much of the work of the RRT related to county efforts and innovations as they implemented welfare reform. This work was based primarily on case studies designed to capture and share specific programs and initiatives in individual counties.

Beginning in 2002, the RRT moved to conducting multi-county studies related to educational services for children in foster care and the relationship between child welfare and the courts. During this period and continuing to 2009, a series of policy relevant papers were also completed, focusing on poverty and welfare among other issues.

In 2005, as a result of cuts to the BASSC budget and in response to the directors’ interest in synthesizing the national research literature, the RRT developed a series of 22 structured literature reviews (child welfare, CalWORKs, adult and aging, offender re-entry and child poverty) along with a series of county knowledge sharing case studies.

Since 2012, the BASSC RRT has focused on multi-year projects related to subsidized employment, child welfare data-mining, Great Recession impact, evidence-informed practices, contractual relations between public sector and nonprofit sector human service organizations, and the impact of implementing the Affordable Care Act (publications pending).

Use the Table of Contents on the following pages to navigate to particular articles and reports published by the BASSC RRT, digital files of the reports are named corresponding to their location in the Table of Contents.
Table of Contents

I. Child Welfare

A. Early County-based Exploratory Studies

1. Considerations Relating to the Placement of Children in Gay/Lesbian Foster and Adoptive Homes (1996)
2. Assessing Quality of Care in Kinship and Foster Family Care (1996)
3. Factors Associated with Family Reunification Outcomes (1997)
11. Factors Influencing Foster Parents’ Decisions to Continue or Cease Foster Parenting (2000)

3. Understanding and Measuring Child Welfare Outcomes
4. Substance Abuse Interventions for Parents Involved in the Child Welfare System
5. Assessing Parent Education Programs for Families Involved with Child Welfare Services: Evidence and Implications
8. Impact of Organizational Change on Organizational Culture: Prospects for Introducing Evidence-based Practice
9. Implementing Evidence-Based Practice: Lessons from the Field
10. Knowledge Management: Implications for Human Service Organizations
11. The Dissemination and Utilization of Research for Promoting Evidence-Based Practice
14. Coming Back Home: The Reintegration of Formerly Incarcerated Youth with Service Implications. (Children and Youth Services Review. 32(10), 2010)

   2. Preventing the Recurrence of Maltreatment
   3. Achieving Timely Reunification
   4. Preventing Re-entry to Foster Care
   5. Achieving Timely Adoption
   6. Achieving Exits to Permanency for Children in Long Term Care

II. Employment and Eligibility
   A. Before Welfare Reform
      2. General Assistance Client Demographic Study in Contra Costa County (1996)

      1. Implementing Welfare Reform and Guiding Organizational Change
      2. Overview of Innovative Programs and Practices
         ▪ Removing Barriers to Workforce Participation
      3. Connections Shuttle: Transportation for CalWORKs Participants
      4. The Guaranteed Ride Home Program: Transportation Services for Welfare-to-Work Participants
      5. Training Exempt Providers to Build High-Quality Child Care
      6. Integrating Mental Health and Substance Abuse Services into a County Welfare-to-Work Program
         ▪ Self-Sufficiency Support Services
      7. Combining Business with Rehabilitation in a Public Workcenter for Disabled and Low-Income Participants
      8. The Family Loan Program as a Public-Private Partnership
      9. The Adopt-a-Family Program: Building Networks of Support
     10. Utilizing Hotline Services to Sustain Employment
     11. Hiring TANF Recipients to Work in a County Human Services Agency
     12. Promoting Self-Sufficiency through Individual Development Accounts (IDAs)
         ▪ Enhancing Community Partnership
     13. Fostering Neighborhood Involvement in Workforce Development
     14. Neighborhood Self-Sufficiency Centers
     15. A Community Partnership Approach To Serving the Homeless
     16. Wraparound Services for Homeless TANF Families Recovering from Substance Abuse
     17. Building a Coalition of Non-Profit Agencies to Collaborate with a County Health and Human Services Agency
18. Collaborative Partnerships Between a Human Services Agency and Local Community Colleges
19. Introducing Organizational Development (OD) Practices in a County Human Services Agency
20. Preparing Human Service Workers to Implement Welfare Reform: Establishing the Family Development Credential in a Human Services Agency
21. Merging a Workforce Investment Board and a Department of Social Services into a County Department of Employment and Human Services
22. Blending Multiple Funding Streams into County Welfare-to-Work Programs
23. Crossover Services between Child Welfare and Welfare-to-Work Programs

C. Post-Welfare Reform Policy Studies
1. The Implications of Managed Care and Welfare Reform for the Integration of Health and Welfare Services,” Journal of Health and Social Policy, 18(2), 2003
6. TANF Child-only cases: Identifying the characteristics and needs of children living in low-income families.” Journal of Children and Poverty, 14(1), 2008

D. Low-income families and neighborhoods (Special Issue, Health and Social Policy, 21(1), 2006)
2. The Status of Low-income Neighborhoods in the Post-Welfare Reform Environment: Mapping the Relationship between Poverty and Place
3. Promising Programs to Serve Low-income Families in Poverty Neighborhoods

E. Theories of Poverty: Special Issue, Journal of Human Behavior & the Social Environment, 16(1/2), 2007
1. Theories of Poverty: Findings from Textbooks on Human Behavior and the Social Environment
2. The Economics of Poverty: Explanatory Theories to Inform Practice
3. Sociological Theories of Poverty in Urban America
4. Psychological Theories of Poverty
5. An Anthropological View of Poverty
6. Political Science Perspectives on Poverty
7. Theories of Global Poverty
8. Social Capital and Neighborhood Poverty: Toward and Ecologically-Grounded Model of Neighborhood Effects
9. Social Work Students’ Perceptions of Poverty
10. The Explosive Nature of the Culture of Poverty: A Teaching Case Based on an Agency-Based Training Program
11. The Influence of Social Science Theories on the Conceptualization of Poverty in Social Welfare”,

4
III. Adult & Aging Services

IV. Guiding Organizational Change
A. Organizational Innovations

B. Building Knowledge Sharing Systems to Support Evidence-Informed Practice (Special Issue, Journal of Evidence-based Social Work. 9(1/2), 2012)
2. Data Mining in Children and Family Services: The Contra Costa County Experience.
3. Building a Culture of Learning through Organizational Development: The Experiences of the Marin County Health and Human Services Department.
4. Linking an Agency Strategic Review to Increase Knowledge Management: San Francisco County Human Service Agency.
5. Linking Departmental Priorities to Knowledge Management: The Experiences of Santa Cruz County’s Human Services Department.
6. Using Evidence-Based Accreditation Standards to Promote Continuous Quality Improvement: The Experiences of the San Mateo County Human Services Agency.
7. Transforming Data Into Action: The Sonoma County Human Services Department
9. A Senior Manager with a Knowledge Management Portfolio: The Santa Clara County Experience.
11. Learning from Staff to Share Knowledge and Inform Decision-Making: The Contra Costa County Experience.
12. The Use of Key Indicators as a Foundation for Knowledge Management: The Experiences of Monterey County’s Social and Employment Services Department.
13. Using Agency-wide Dashboards for Data Monitoring and Data Mining: The Solano County Health & Social Services Department.

C. Leadership Challenges
1. Building a Comprehensive Agency-University Partnership
2. Revisiting the Learning Organization: Future Directions for the Transfer for Learning
3. Launching a Family-Centered, Neighborhood-Based Human Services System: Lessons from Working the Hallways and Street Corners
4. Clients as Customers: A County Social Service Agency Listens to its Primary Constituency
5. The Politics of Executive Entry: The First Year as General Manager of the San Francisco Department of Social Services
6. From Vision to Reality and Back to Vision: Reflections on Three Decades in Public Social Services Administration
7. The Leadership Challenges in Transforming a Public Human Services Agency
8. Leadership Development at the Top: A Teaching Case on Coaching in a Public Human Service Organization
9. Evidence-Based Practice in the Social Services: Implications for Organizational Change

V. Pending Publications & Reports (available in 2015)
   • Employer Perspectives on the Role of Soft Skills in Subsidized Employment Programs, Families in Society.
   • Engaging Employers as Partners in Subsidized Employment Programs.
   • Qualitative Data-mining in Practice-based Social Service Organizations, Qualitative Social Work.
   • Data-mining in County Social Service Agencies: A Cross-case Analysis.
   • Impact of Great Recession on County Human Service Organizations: A Cross-case Analysis.
   • Evidence-informed Practice: An Eleven County Survey.