Charging Stations during PG&E Power Shutoff

If you are a medically vulnerable resident and rely on electronic durable medical equipment for your health needs, consider these options for staying healthy and avoiding a hospital visit:

- Contact family and friends not affected by the power outage. Arrange staying with them or having them help charge your equipment.
- Call your medical supplier/vendor for backup equipment or batteries.
- Get to a local charging stations that is available for charging your equipment or mobile phone (110V; must bring your own cords):
