Veterans' Voices Show to Talk with Corpsmen, Medics, and Doctors

On Monday, August 8, at 7 pm (PST), the Veterans' Voices show will host a LIVE panel with Veteran Corpsmen and Medics in its "Corpsman Up!" episode. The show will examine the experiences and opinions of different generations of medical experts who serve. The show will include an interview with the Secretary of the California Department of Veterans Affairs, Dr. Vito Imbasciani. The live panel will feature Doc Guy C. Lamunyon, the Veterans' Service Commander for The National Association of Military Medics and Corpsmen. The panel will also include Veteran Medics and Corpsmen Crystal Cain, Killy Kitzmann, Mike Weber, and Kristen Cassidy.

Viewers can share their own experiences or ask a question by calling the program at 925-313-1170. They can also use the phone number to record a message for the panel any time prior to the show. Leave questions and comments at facebook.com/veteransvoices1 or email veteransvoices@contracostatv.org prior to or during the live television show.

The Veterans' Voices program is broadcasted live on Contra Costa Television (CCTV) on the second Monday of every month at 7 pm. It can be seen live online at facebook.com/veteransvoices1. You can find an archive of past shows and show resources at <https://contracosta.ca.gov/5163/Veterans-Voices> or on our YouTube channel Veterans' Voices of Contra Costa. The show is re-run multiple times on CCTV on Comcast Channel 27, Astound Channels 32 and 1027, and AT&T U-Verse Channel 99.

Medics and Corpsmen save lives. Veterans Voices' is proud to host a discussion of those who dedicated their military careers to helping others.
